Cookie Policy 2023

Culture Shock uses cookies to improve your experience throughout our website. More information about how and why we use cookies and how you can manage them can be found in this policy.

This Cookie Policy applies to the website(s) and mobile applications (together, the "Sites") provided by Culture Shock Limited ("Culture Shock", "we", "us"). The Sites include www.cultureshockpng.com and additional websites or mobile applications produced and managed by Culture Shock.

This Cookie Policy explains how and why cookies, web beacons, pixels and other similar technologies (collectively "Cookies") may be stored on and accessed from your device when you use or visit our Sites and how you can manage your preferences. This Cookie Policy should be read together with our Privacy Policy and our Terms of Use.

Culture Shock reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to alter and update this Cookie Policy from time to time. We therefore invite you to review the current version of the Cookie Policy each time you return to our Sites.

What are Cookies?

"Cookies" are small text files that are stored by your browser on your computer's or other device's hard drive. Cookies can be placed on your device directly by one of our Sites (first party Cookies) or by a third party through one of our Sites (third party Cookies).

Cookies can be further categorised into two types:

- Session Cookies are only stored on your device during your browser session. They are deleted when you close your browser.
- Persistent Cookies remain on your device for a set period of time even after your browser session has ended.

What do we use Cookies for?

Our Sites use different categories of Cookies for the purposes described below.

Strictly necessary Cookies

These Cookies are required for the operation of our Sites and use of its features.

They include, for example, Cookies that enable you to log into secure areas of our Sites. They enable us to remember some of your choices to speed up navigation and provide you with a secure site experience.

Our Sites cannot function without such Cookies and they are therefore automatically set when you visit them. You can set your browser to block or alert you about these Cookies, but some parts of our Sites will not work (please see “Managing Cookies” below for more information).

Functional Cookies

Our Sites may use functional Cookies such as Google Analytics to carry out some analytics on and enhance our Sites. These Cookies allow us to collect information such as how you use our Sites, which pages are the most visited or where people visiting our Sites are located. This enables us to determine what content is of most interest to our users and to ensure that users are finding what they are looking for easily.

If you are an account holder on one of our Sites, we may use Cookies to collect information about your activity on our Sites, such as which pages you viewed or which videos you watched. This helps us to understand what content is of interest to you.

Managing Cookies

Strictly necessary Cookies are automatically set on your browser when you visit our Sites. These Cookies are required for our Sites to work properly and cannot be disabled using the “Manage Cookie Settings” window on our Sites.

You have the choice to accept all Cookies by clicking on “Accept all cookies” or manage your Cookie preferences by clicking on “Manage cookie settings” on our cookie banner. Please note that certain functionalities of our Sites might not work if you choose to disable other Cookies.

If you want to modify your Cookie settings later on, you can do so by clicking on the “Manage cookie settings” button at the top of this Policy.

You can also use the settings of your Internet browser to prevent your browser from accepting new Cookies (including strictly necessary Cookies), get notified when new Cookies are dropped on your browser and disable or delete Cookies altogether (including strictly necessary Cookies).

Please note that deleting existing Cookies will not prevent Cookies from being set during your next visit on our Sites.

You can find more information about how to manage Cookies in the “help” section of your browser.
